CHICAGO—United Airlines announced today it is furloughing 599 employees and reducing the number of its daily flights because of the economic slump and U.S. energy problems.

The nation's largest airline reduced its flight schedules three per cent effective Jan. 7 and the layoffs will take effect Jan. 17, said Edward E. Carlson, chairman.

Carlson said the airline reported a 10 per cent drop in revenue passenger miles in December compared with the same month a year ago and expects the travel slowdown to continue through the first half of 1975.

"We are compelled to gear plant-size and employment to service needs and adjust capacity to reflect the changing business environment of 1975," said Carlson. "The necessity for furloughs is deeply regretted and we are making every effort to keep them at an absolute minimum."

imum."

The flight reductions total 48 daily departures and will have no appreciable effect on service, Carlson said.

With the reductions, United will fly 1,401 daily departures, which is seven per cent higher than the same period in 1974, a spokesman said.

The addition of wide body aircraft and some modification to older planes increases the number of available passenger seats daily by 11 per cent over the same period last year, the spokesman added.

A complete list of cities affected by the reductions was not immediately available; but Chicago lost four departures, Minneapolis two and Omaha, Neb., and Detroit one each, the spokesman said.

The furloughs, for an indefinite period, affect ground personnel such as reservation clerks, skycaps and customer service agents. Many of those furloughed are part-time workers, the spokesman said.

He said an undetermined number of the flight reductions and furloughs were due to normal seasonal patterns. Tourist travel usually drops early in the year after the brisk holiday season, he said.

News in brief

Need Kissinger for peace

WASHINGTON (AP)—Israel believes that another partial peace agreement in the Middle East can be produced only by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's direct intervention with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, diplomatic sources say.

Even though Israel has indicated a willingness to negotiate the return of strategic Sinai mountain passes, there has been no counteroffer or substantive response from Egypt, the sources said.

Bailar named Postmaster

WASHINGTON (AP)—Benjamin F. Bailar has been named to succeed Elmer T. Klassen, who is quitting as postmaster general after a barrage of criticism about postal service and rates. "My only reservation in stepping aside is that it may appear I am yielding the battle to the critics of the Postal Service. Nothing could be less justified," Klassen said Wednesday in a statement accompanying his resignation.

The Postal Service's board of governors named Deputy Postmaster General Bailar to succeed Klassen in the $60,000-a-year position.

Oil industry strike looms

DENVER (AP)—An oil industry workers strike will be called by tonight unless a contract settlement with the nation's oil companies is reached, the president of the union says. A. F. Groszpiorn of the 60,000-member Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union set the deadline for reaching agreement on a new contract late Wednesday. There was no immediate response from the oil companies, which have refused comment on other stages of the bargaining talks.

Nixon observes birthday

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP)—Former President Richard M. Nixon, secluded in his oceanside estate once called the Western White House, observes his 62nd birthday today. Rabbi Baruch Korff, among Nixon's staunchest supporters, said in a telephone interview Wednesday that Nixon was "sad at the course of events" that saw him fall from the presidency in the Watergate scandal. Nixon's birthday plans for today were simple, the rabbi said—just "a quiet day with Mrs. Nixon." Sometime during the day his daughters, Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox, were expected to call from their East Coast homes to wish him a happy birthday.

Former inmates at home

WASHINGTON (AP)—Freed from prison after serving only part of their terms, John W. Dean III, Jeb Stuart Magruder and Herbert W. Kalmbach are beginning what Dean's wife called "living again." The three men, key figures in the Watergate scandal, headed home—Dean and Kalmbach to California, and Magruder to Bethesda, Md., after being released by U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica, who reduced their terms to "time served."

CIA under the gun again

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Justice Department once gave the Central Intelligence Agency names of between 9,000 and 10,000 American dissidents in an effort to increase surveillance of them abroad, a Justice Department official says. James T. Devine, once head of the Interagency Domestic Intelligence Unit in the Justice Department, said he supplied the list in 1970 at the suggestion of J. Edgar Hoover, then assistant attorney general in charge of the civil rights division.

Find possible cancer virus

WASHINGTON (AP)—National Cancer Institute scientists are studying a virus found in the cultured blood cells of a leukemia patient that they believe may be a long-sought human cancer virus. They are conducting additional tests to seek further support for their conclusions. If it is confirmed that the virus is of human origin, medical researchers would have a new tool to develop accurate methods of early detection of some forms of cancer and perhaps more effective treatments.

Arabians buy U.S. planes

By The Associated Press

Saudi Arabia, the world's biggest oil exporter, announced today it has concluded a $756-million deal to buy "several squadrons" of American jet fighter planes "to consolidate the kingdom's ability to defend its territory."

Railroads resist demands

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's railroads, threatened with strikes against five major carriers later this month, say they have no choice but to resist what they say are unreasonable union demands. The railroads responded after the Sheet Metal Workers International Association served formal strike notices on the Union Pacific, Missouri Pacific, Texas Pacific, Baltimore & Ohio and Seaboard Coast Line railroads.

813,600 receive benefits

WASHINGTON (AP)—As President Ford and the House Democratic leadership near completion of their separate anti-recession programs, pessimistic economic reports continue unabated. A record 813,600 per sons filed new claims for unemployment insurance benefits in the week ending Dec. 28. The 60,000-member Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union said a strike would be called against the nation's oil companies unless agreement on new contracts for 430 local bargaining units is reached.

Insurance crisis for Drs.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The growing problems that physicians encounter when seeking medical malpractice insurance is "a major crisis problem" facing the nation, according to Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger. Weinberger's comments came at a meeting convened to discuss threatened malpractice policy cancellations and skyrocketing premiums facing physicians as the result of claims against insurance companies.

$90,000 bridge job okayed

By ROBERT H. NELLIS
The Finance Committee of the Lee County Board today voted to recommend the county pay $90,000 toward the reconstruction of the Peoria Avenue Bridge and to recommend the Highway Safety Traffic Division proposed by Sheriff Ray Nehring be rejected.

These recommendations will be presented at the Tuesday meeting of the board.

Board Chairman Irvin Koch, District 2, noted the amount paid by Dixon taxpayers into the county's Special Bridge Fund for a three-year period is equal to the amount asked that the county pay toward rebuilding this bridge.

Dixon's assessed valuation is about $60 million, the chairman observed, and said extending the five cents levy for the county's Special Bridge Fund by the city's assessment produces $30,000 per year in that fund.

The committee recommendation suggested the county transfer $60,000 from the County Highway Fund to the County Special Bridge Fund and that the borrowed amount be repaid to the highway fund over a three-year period.

The committee met with the Road and Bridge Committee earlier and ascertained there is a balance in the Special Bridge Fund of $30,000 which, added to the $60,000 transferred amount, will provide $90,000 which is one-half of the local share money needed to pay for the project.

The bridge was constructed in 1929 with the city and the county each paying half of the almost $180,000 cost.

Rebuilding the span has been estimated to cost $600,000 and federal funds will pay for 70 per cent of the amount or $420,000, with the remaining portion to be paid by local funds.

The city had asked the county to share half of the remaining amount, $90,000.

Winston McReynolds, Finance Committee chairman, District 3, today told the committee over the past 20 years Dixon taxpayers have paid $560,492.72 in the county's Special Bridge Fund and that he knew of no amount paid from that fund for a bridge in the city.

McReynolds also said State's Atty. Patrick Ward had written a letter in which he stated the county may participate with the city in financing the bridge repairs.

Ronald Brandau, county superintendent of highways, told the committee the Special Bridge Fund gets about $120,000 per year and presently has an uncommitted balance of about $30,000.

Sheriff Nehring at the December meeting of the board had asked permission to apply for a grant to set up a traffic safety division which would require $11,485 from the county and of which he had a budgeted amount of $5,000.

The additional amount of $6,485 must come from the County General Fund.

The program includes the county receiving a squad car from the state and for adding two deputies.

Donald F. Burke, District 3, Finance Committee member, objected to the request, noting it could lock us into a $29,000 annual budget not to include the replacement of equipment in a couple of years.

McReynolds explained, "The program will hire two men and if federal revenue sharing funds play out county taxpayers will have to pick up this cost."

Graham Huffman, District 4, Finance Committee member, observed "The sheriff has said he will transfer two present deputies to the highway safety division and hire two new men as regular deputies."

"What I wonder is, when federal revenue sharing funds are stopped, will we be able to lay off these men, because they may have merit commission status."

James Green, District 4, Finance Committee member, added, "This committee should give the sheriff direction to seek ways to economize the operations of this office and not to continually submit requests for extra expenditures."

Burke said, "The sheriff's office has had rapid expansion and it is time to sit back and take a breather."

Koch reported other board members are of the opinion "It is time to shut off giving the sheriff additional funds because he thinks he can come to the board and get anything he wants."

Burke noted, of the sheriff's $380,000 budget, $200,000 comes from federal revenue sharing, and declared "If federal revenue sharing should be discontinued we will be in big trouble."

County Treasurer Sharon Thompson told the Finance Committee a quarterly federal revenue sharing check of almost $76,000 was received on Monday.

She reported the county has $200,000 in federal revenue sharing funds in a checking account and said she wanted to invest these funds in time deposits.

Mrs. Thompson related Darlene Herzog, city controller, has only $100 in the city's federal revenue sharing funds in a checking account, and the rest of the funds held by the city are invested.

The treasurer also reported $190,000 in county funds have been put in certificates of deposits at 8 1/2 per cent interest on a high-bid basis submitted by the First National Bank of Ambury.

Mrs. Thompson said she checked with a Chicago-area bank and was offered 8 1/2 per cent interest. "I guess we are justified in keeping funds in Lee County," she concluded.

McReynolds asked the committee to study whether the county should not establish a policy of setting a certain amount of revenue sharing funds aside for programs for the poor and the aged.

He remarked this category of social service has the highest priority by the federal government, "and I have not seen this board use any such funds for these purposes."

Tax cut proposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—A tax cut principally for low and middle income persons will be pushed to a House vote if possible by early March, the chairman-designate of the House Ways and Means Committee said today.

Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., who is in line to head the tax-writing committee, told newsmen he will press for a one-year emergency tax measure "to put revenues back into the spending stream" and so boost the economy.

Longer range changes in the tax laws would be considered later, Ullman said, but some revenue-increasing measures, such as ending the oil depletion allowance, might be included in the emergency package.

Ullman said he would also probably propose some corporate tax relief, such as an increase in the investment credit. Under existing law, most businesses can take 7 per cent of their investment in equipment off their tax bill.

Ullman said he cannot now indicate the extent of the tax cut or the amount that would be saved by an individual. Much will depend, he indicated, on whether some revenue-raising measures will be included in the package or whether these will have to wait for more leisurely consideration.

He said, however, that the individual tax relief would be directed mainly to the lowest incomes and taper off as middle incomes were reached.

"There is no reason to give tax relief to people who would put the money in the bank," Ullman said.

As for the dimensions of the cut, he would say only that he had previously described $5 billion as too little and $30 billion as too much.

Meanwhile, President Ford and the House Democratic leadership neared completion of their separate antirecession programs as pessimistic economic reports continued unabated.

Members of a 10-Democrat House task force, named by Speaker Carl Albert to draft an economic recovery program, returned to work behind closed doors today. The task force is developing recommendations including a tax cut for delivery to Albert next week.

Without disclosing what Ford's proposals may include, White House Press Secretary Ron Nessen quoted Ford as telling the Cabinet Wednesday: "Ours is a good program. It is tough. It is fully defensible. It will give us the restoration of confidence that is essential for recovery."

Nessen quoted Chairman Alan Greenspan of the Council of Economic Advisers as telling the Cabinet Wednesday that the jobless rate won't decline until next year.

Ford's program, which may be announced as early as next week, also reportedly includes a tax cut of undetermined magnitude.

There were these other economic news developments Wednesday: —A record 813,600 persons filed new claims for unemployment insurance benefits in the week ending Dec. 28, the highest one-week total since the program started paying benefits in 1937 during the final years of the Depression, the Labor Department said. New claims filed last month reached more than 2.8 million nationwide.

—The 60,000-member Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union said a strike would be called against the nation's oil companies unless agreement on new contracts for 430 local bargaining units is reached.

—Strikes beginning Jan. 24 were threatened by the Sheet Metal Workers Union against five railroads: the Union Pacific, the Missouri Pacific, the Texas Pacific, the Baltimore & Ohio and the Seaboard Coast Line.

—If bankruptcy petitions continue at the current rate, there will be a record 231,669 such requests in the current fiscal year ending June 30, according to the administrative office of the United States Courts.

—Layoffs totalling 2,048 workers were announced by the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co., Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. and the Seiberling Tire and Rubber Co. General Motors Corp. said it was laying off 2,100 more workers and Ford Motor Co. cut back 2,800 additional employees. The Polaroid Corp. said it was deferring salary increases for its nonunion employees. Texas Instruments said it was laying off 9,000 worldwide because of a drop in incoming orders. The General Electric Co. said it would trim 800 jobs at its jet engine plant at Evendale, Ohio. The Westinghouse Electric Corp. said it will lay off 180 workers at its Cathode Ray Tube Division plant at Horseheads, N.Y., Friday.

—Chrysler Corp. Chairman Lynn Townsend called for an immediate tax cut, saying "drastic action must be taken to restore consumer confidence."

Fire victims in need of clothing

An appeal is being made for clothing for the John Maronde family of Nachusa whose home was destroyed and clothing lost by fire Wednesday.

The Maronde family consists of two girls, ages 5 and 6; a boy, 8 years old; Mrs. Maronde's dress size is 26 1/2 and Maronde's shirt size is large and his waist size is 36.

Any clothing for the Maronde family may be left at the Ed Curren residence in Nachusa; the Dixon Rural Fire Station on Palmyra Avenue, or the John Deere Historic Site in Grand Detour.

Money donation for the Maronde family may be left at the City National Bank and Trust Co.

School board keeps baseball, swimming

By CONNI DETTMAN

Parents and supporters of the Dixon High School Baseball and Swimming teams were assured of the programs' continuance by Board President Jim Dixon, at the Dixon School Board meeting Wednesday night.

Dixon told the group of nearly 50, "We started it and we're going to continue it." He added, "The program is out of the crisis but not the deficit. The board will continue to fund the programs on a year-to-year basis."

Bill Lovas, swimming coach at DHS, told the board the team had recently completed a swim-a-thon to help raise funds for the team. Lovas added, although the funds were going to be used for equipment, part could be used to make up the deficit in the swimming program. He told the board area swimming coaches had encouraged Dixon to continue the program and the members of the DHS team were helping to cut back on expenses.

Dixon said the board did not expect the team to make up the deficit and reassured the group the programs would continue. He added the programs would probably not be too fancy or have the best equipment, but would continue.

Later, Dixon said the board's feeling was against any organization trying to raise money to fund or even start new programs. He said it is hard to say no to a group of enthusiastic people who are trying to raise money to support a program.

The 1974-75 budget was approved by the board. The approval of the budget, coming three months later than usual because of salary settlements, was increased a total of $111,750 for a final budget figure of $5,782,722.

The budget shows a total increase of $274,376 over the 1973-74 budget.

Wilbur Stitzel Jr., business manager for the Dixon School District, told the board hopeful payment of some district funds during the year would prevent a budget deficit at the end of the fiscal year. Stitzel added the district would not be able to pay the deficit until taxes were received from the recently passed referendum.

Merrill Hughes, assistant superintendent of curriculum, presented a report of the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills test scores for 1974.

The tests were taken the third week in September by all students in the third through eighth grades.

Hughes told the board, before presenting a graph on each grade level, the tests were one means to evaluate the effectiveness of instruction in the school district. He added, however, there are many factors which affect the quality of instruction and the student's performance on the tests.

Some of the influencing factors include the attendance record of students and teachers, home environment of the students, past educational experiences of the students, mental and emotional health of the students, students' and teachers' attitudes toward the tests and the curriculum material being used.

The scores of the Dixon students at each of the schools were then compared to the national percentile. The percentile of the national level for the CTBS was 50.

Grade three students showed their high percentile was in reading comprehension, with a 53 percentile, and their lowest average, of 43, in mechanics of language and mathematical computation. Fourth grade students excelled with a 57 percentile in reading vocabulary, with a low 43 percentile in mathematical computation. Grade five students had their highest percentile in reading vocabulary and graphs, while their lowest percentile, of 38, was in mathematical computation.

Sixth grade students excelled in graphs and mathematical concepts, with a 55 and 54 percentile, respectively, but scored the lowest percentile, of 42, in mathematical computation. Grade seven students scored their highest in spelling and reading vocabulary, with a 52 percentile, and their lowest percentile, of 36, in mathematical computation. Eighth grade students showed a high percentile in graphs, at 52, and the low percentile of 36 in mathematical computation.

The total average percentiles for each grade for the overall tests were reported as: grade three, 51; grade four, 54; grade five, 40; grade six, 55; grade seven, 51; and grade eight, 52. Hughes said these figures showed the Dixon district students rated about average on the national level.

Board members discussed the amended board policy for the use of school facilities. After discussing the no-fee activities and the fees for activities which charge admission, the board decided to amend the policy to add a section concerning fee for activities which do not charge admission. No formal action was taken on the board policy.

A recommendation for Title III-NDEA funds was approved. The approved project for $7,124.32 will reimburse the Dixon school for 50 per cent of the total project or about $3,562.16. The Title III funds were used in the Industrial Education Department at Dixon High School.

Board members later approved a recommendation for Title II-ESEA projects. This project containing funds of $7,158 is to be used for the improvement of library and audio-visual resources.

In final action, the board approved the dismissal of kindergarten classes Feb. 4 and 5 for parent-teacher conferences.

—approved a recommendation to allow an additional foreign language teacher to act as a chaperone for the spring student trip to Mexico.

History soon to demand accounting

It has been easy this past year to foretell doom. But it is no cause for joy to have been proved right: to have watched recession and perhaps something worse coming to pass. The danger is that such prophecies fulfill themselves, they darken that very gloom in whose shadow slump is fostered and spawns. But the press should not repent its pessimism.

Our purpose has been to conserve and reconstruct what we see crumbling, not to pull it down—to analyze first in order the better to prescribe. That has needed to be done. Rarely in our lifetime has there been a greater need than now for those people in society—dare one any longer use the word leaders?—to take their courage, and our welfare, in their hands.

Most of these people are democratically elected, or, at least in the West, they are appointed on merit and by consent. There lies the snag. One flaw in democracy is that its practitioners look to the next election, the next appointment, not beyond.

A second flaw is that Western states now command so large a share of their citizens' wealth that they have at their command the weapons needed to win that next election: to put it crudely, they can print money in time for the next ballot.

From this unhappy pair of flaws in Western society has recently been born the new post-Keynesian politics. This consists of the politics of - putting - off - the - evil - day. Buy off this interest, buy off that, and be sure that those being bought off (trade unions and industries, for example) will soon be back, ready to be bought off again.

This politics of - putting - off - the - evil - day is evident in every Western democracy, even nowadays in that paragon, West Germany. In Britain it has simply been writ large. The government borrowing requirement in Britain this year, for instance, is $14.4 billion. It is a rather extraordinary thought that if America were to run a government spending deficit of equivalent size in its own much larger economy, it would amount to $126 billion.

Enjoy your turkey as you imagine that; one-tenth of what you are eating, the drumstick perhaps, has been borrowed.

Easy to describe, but who will change it? There are the obvious targets for criticism and the less obvious ones. It is not enough, on the eve of the last quarter century of the second millennium, only to flail away at the obvious ones—the trade unions, the Arabs, the Persians who, forgive them all father, know not what they do.

For these people know very well what they do, and will go on doing it until those who wish to conserve persuade them to do otherwise.

When did the businessmen who rightly attack the monopoly practices of unions last look at their own incompetence? The illness that afflicts Britain and will, with only slight delay, afflict the rest of the West in 1975 can be cured only if the wise international physicians and lecturers of the world heal and learn from themselves.

Take, for example, the oil-price and oil-money problem that now threatens to break the Western camel's back. Yes, it is true that this has come about because the Arabs and others have learned that they can make money from under their sand. But the heart of that oil cartel lies in the politics of Jerusalem as much as it does in the sand. And that tiny state, Israel, a David long and justly admired, can now, if it wishes, determine its own future (and to a large extent that of its Western patrons and friends) by practicing a moderation and magnanimity which has been too seldom apparent since the watershed year of 1967.

Israel has been exploring the ground for compromise with emissaries of the Palestine Liberation Organization. It will insist, and rightly, that any eventual solution recognizes permanently two Palestinian states, the Israeli one as well as the Arab. Where Israel will go wrong is if it uses a momentary military advantage to strike without good reason at its foes in early 1975.

At best that might buy it three years more of existence, not the hundreds of years that it will certainly risk. For in the long run David has sympathy from his friends, Samson not much.

What compels Israel to look such a short way ahead is the muddle of its own democratic politics. The same muddle afflicts that second candidate for self-healing, the Western alliance itself. Its enemy for the moment is less the tank and submarine power of Leonid Brezhnev than the horror of approaching recession. One way out of this recession, by deflation, makes popular short-term politics. And in several countries, notably America and Germany, deflation is desperately required. But a reasoned avoidance of protectionism when under fire, the stringency of sharing national wealth and discouraging waste, those other necessary things are far less popular.

They have been made unpopular because of the license that full employment and peace have given this past quarter-century to right and left in society, to hawk and dove alike. In the politics of - putting - off - the - evil - day it has been the rhetoric of the extremes that has flourished—the unwelcome extremes, sadly, of society's flanks.

The extreme center, "a body that holds very moderate views, and is vehemently opposed to a compromise being struck on any one of them," has been lost. In the politics of Jerusalem and of NATO's capitals it must be quickly refound.

"Oh goody! It's twins!"

Bankers fear flood of petrodollars

By MARJORIE DEANE
(Editor's Note: A. W. Clausen, president of the Bank of America since 1969, is also president of the Federal Advisory Council, a watchdog organization of commercial bankers.)

Does Bank of America say that it cannot go on channelling petrodollars to finance industrial countries' balance of payments deficits? And if so, will you explain why?

What is being said, and what I myself believe, is that private financial institutions cannot do the total job of recycling the funds being gathered by the surplus nations, the Middle East nations in particular. Admittedly, so far the vast bulk of this recycling has been done by them, and only a small portion on a government-to-government basis and through the $3 billion Witteveen facility in the IMF.

But as surplus funds are being gathered in greater and greater quantity, we need more government-to-government placement of surplus funds, direct borrowings by governments (including the United States) as well as the private financial institutions. So it is not a matter of either-or.

But great pressure is being put on private financial institutions now because of the lack of alternatives in a capacity-short world: the equity markets generally throughout the world are in a dismal state of disarray because of high inflation, and the long-term bond markets are not an attractive alternative. So both the loan obligations and deposits of private financial institutions have grown very rapidly. You cannot extrapolate those lines indefinitely.

Have you become exceedingly cautious about lending, say, to Italian or British companies because of payments deficits? Is there a black list?

Since the beginning of the banking industry, our basic job has been as an intermediary of financial resources and as an assessor of risk. Lots of things go into risk assessment, but I would be less than candid if I said that those nations that have very severe balance of payments deficits and high rates of inflation and internal problems, be they political or economic (and I might say that largely today the problems are political and not economic), are the most attractive risks.

I said that I believe the principal problems to date are not economic but political. If we are capable of predicting what is going to happen in an economic sense, and if we don't like what we see, there are some known tools and vehicles that we can use to avoid or to mitigate against that Mack truck that is coming down the road to smash us. What we'd like is the political courage to put those economic antidotes into effect.

I may realize that we have got to save more, consume less and spend less, but, if I am running for office this time, none of these is going to get me elected.

Or, if I do these things, unemployment is going to rise, and that's unpopular. Or, since I represent a housing region or whatever, if I do certain things, my particular industry, or where most of my constituents reside, is going to be adversely affected. These are the political interplays that exist everywhere. Everyone has constituents—labor, unions, government and even private enterprise.

Do you feel the need sometimes to put corporate and social responsibilities before the maximization of profits?

I think the problem is to balance profit with growth and serving clients. The market place will always be served; that's in page one of my primer. If the banking fraternity doesn't do it, then the market would be served by other financial institutions, the commercial paper market, savings and loans, credit unions, and so on. So it's balancing strong profit and fair return—which is what our shareholders desire—with what customers want. You really can't serve your customers unless you are profitable and the more profitable you are, the better you can serve your customers.

You doubtless think recent reports that the American banking system is creaking are exaggerated.

In times like this, when financial waters are troubled, the quality of management and assets becomes crucial. Given the lack of alternatives in the market place, given the unprecedented high worldwide inflation, given the compounding of the tripling of oil prices last year, and the fact that private financial institutions have been the principal mediator to date in the transfer of funds from surplus to deficit countries, financial institutions are bound to be under pressure.

But basically the banks are tremendously strong. And we are intermeddling; we are doing a responsible job, and, I might say, we are doing it damned efficiently.

REFLECTIONS— We often make a point by observing the giant-sized dinosaurs became extinct because they did not have the faculty of rationality which is necessary to be adaptable to changing circumstances.

It is true these primitive monsters were stupid. Stegosaurus weighed 15 tons but had a brain which tipped the scales by only a few ounces. The dinosaur's activities were controlled by glands rather than by the brain.

They have been called automata or biological robots.

Homo sapiens, man, on the other hand, has a brain which is one sixtieth of the size of his body while the dreaded Brontosaurus' brain was only one hundred-thousandth of the size of its body.

One thing we might reflect upon is our existence is quite removed from the natural world by a variety of modifications made to protect ourselves from the blind reactions of Mother Nature.

Because of these modifications we are more comfortable, better fed, healthier and are experiencing added longevity.

Also as a by-product of these modifications which insulate us from Mother Nature and her ravages, we have discovered nuclear fission, which can literally tap the virtually unlimited resources of the sun, which man worshipped before the Hebrew god, Yahweh, was introduced to man's theological ideas.

The potential of nuclear fission could propel man to an unprecedented golden age of civilization.

The unhappy fact is, however,

Representing the establishment

By JOHN F. McMANUS
BELMONT, Mass.— Professor John Kenneth Galbraith has said of the New York-based Council on Foreign Relations (CFR) that "it is as much a part of the ruling establishment" as the State Department. Had he wished to, Mr. Galbraith, himself a member of the CFR, could have stated that the CFR is as much the ruling Establishment as any organization, public or private, in the United States.

Incorporated in 1921, the CFR has always said of itself that it is merely a study group. But its purpose, according to critics and even some friends, has included more than just high-level studies of foreign affairs. Close observers of the CFR see it as a major element in the continuing drive to subvert the independence of the United States in favor of an all-powerful one-world socialist government. Their view gains credibility from the fact that such a goal was the professed lifelong ambition of CFR founder and architect Edward M. House, President Wilson's sponsor and chief advisor.

Although many Americans know that there is an "establishment" running our country, most have never heard of the CFR. And while the names of David Rockefeller (CFR board chairman) and many more of the CFR's 1625 members are well-known as opinion molders and men of influence, their membership in the organization has been kept quiet. A roster of the CFR at any time in the past 40 years, however, has always been the equivalent of a Who's Who in the Establishment.

Columnists, editors, financiers, publishers, educators, corporation heads, politicians, cabinet officials, military officers, and even Presidents have been or are members of the CFR. Yet little note of their association has ever been made. (CFR member Presidents have included Hoover, Eisenhower, Kennedy, and Nixon. CFR member presidential candidates have included Willkie, Dewey, Stevenson, Humphrey, and McGovern.)

In 1939, the CFR entered into an

Take it from Here

Enrico Fermi, the Italian genius, and a team of physicists first cracked the atom in 1942 under the seats of Stagg Field on the campus of the University of Chicago and now, 36 years after that date, the answer is not in whether this seminal feat of man will lift us to a higher stage of humanity or will be the force which we will use to destroy ourselves.

The biological robot dinosaurs' existence span has been called a biological success by University of Iowa geologist Holmes Semken because they survived from 150 million to 200 million years and for a good part of that time were the dominant form of animal life.

Homo sapiens identifiable by his cultural development showing the presence of his greater reasoning power has been around for about 50,000 years, according to scientists.

Java Man is said to have lived about one million years ago and his skeletal remains resemble that of primitive man.

Another more recent ancestor of modern man, Pekin Man, lived about 500,000 years ago, according to geologists.

The farthest time ago speculations by scientists of homo sapiens existence on this earth is one hundred-fiftieth to two hundredth of the time dinosaurs lived on this planet.

Modern man may be dated to 50,000 years ago, but he began to develop civilization as we know it some 6,000 years ago when he started to use a written language.

None will contradict the opinion man and the dinosaur are on opposite poles in the abilities each possess to maximize his existence.

It just may be there is too little of the dinosaur in modern man, and enough potential ability possessed by the upright mammal for him to literally make his own environment to the extent he cannot control it and which may become his Frankenstein monster which will destroy him.

In fact, we suspect the Frankenstein myth carries the same warning.

We have seen another depiction of horrible monsters which are a threat to man.

These come to us via cinemas and TV movies which show the spectacle of hordes of giant insects overrunning the earth.

Ants, mosquitos and dragonflies which TV commercials show being zapped in 30 seconds and in the cinema treatment develop an immunity to man's aerosol arsenal and in fact from the poison ingested grow visibly to huge grossly menacing monsters.

This display of horror also probably is an outgrowth of fears of something going wrong in a man-made environment establishing an irreversible condition which will lead to the extinction of man.

If it brings any comfort, University of Iowa zoologist Barbara Stay believes the probability of giant insects evolving in real life is "just about zero."

She formed her ideas from extensive studies of insects and the largest species she knows of is a six-inch Australian cockroach and a slightly larger tropical dragonfly.

Dixonites will have an opportunity to observe an almost total eclipse of the sun on the morning of Jan. 24. So complete will be the eclipse, viewed in this vicinity, that only one-twentieth of the sun's surface will be visible, and only one four-hundredth of its usual light will be given out.

The City Council at its regular weekly meeting last evening was in session but a brief period. The council passed the regular monthly payroll amounting to $6,923.47, and adjourned.

New alphabet would double reading speed

NEW MARKET, Md. (AP)—Thirty-six years and 5,000 hours later, Dr. John V. Atanasoff says he is still working on his lifetime dream: a universal alphabet.

Atanasoff, 71, has developed an alphabetic system which resembles Braille, the raised dots read by the blind. He says his system can be used to transcribe English or Russian just as easily as Japanese or French.

Atanasoff says his new alphabet drastically reduces the time necessary to learn to read and write and would at least double reading speed.

Atanasoff is not secretive about his system which is based on phonetic spelling and uses 35 symbols for transcribing English. The new system has been designed by its inventor to be scanned by electronic readers and requires only one-third the amount of space as the standard alphabet.

But Atanasoff and his wife, Alice, say that perfecting the system may take decades with no guarantee that it might ever be adopted by anyone.

Indeed, the retired theoretical physicist said: "I think my chances are damn poor, don't you?" Nevertheless, he says he continues to work on the project he started in 1939 so that someone may be able to pick up where he leaves off.

Atanasoff designed a computer for his alphabet in 1939 while he was an associate professor of physics and mathematics at Iowa State College in Ames, Iowa. He never patented the device and two other men were credited with its creation until a federal court ruled last year that the computer's father was Atanasoff.

Foley-Lopez marriage ceremony

STERLING — Miss Lois Foley, daughter of Mrs. Victoria Foley, Rt. 2, Harmon, became the bride of Alfred Lopez, son of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Lopez, Rock Falls, Dec. 14 in St. Mary's Catholic Church, Sterling.

The double-ring wedding was performed at 11 a.m. by the Rev. William Knott before an altar flanked by twin arrangements of white gladioli in brass pedestal containers.

Musicians Organ accompaniment for vocal selections by Frank Klocke was provided by Mrs. Robert Fecht.

Escorted to the altar by Eugene Kaecker, a family friend, the bride was attired in a floor-length gown of white polyester organza over satin. The gown's bell skirt, accented by a hemline ruffle of Alencon lace and a sweep train, was topped by a molded bodice designed with bishop sleeves ending in lace cuffs and a Sabrina neckline edged with crystal-embroidered lace. A bandeau held her chapel-length mantilla of illusion bordered with lace, and the bouquet she carried combined red and white Sweetheart roses, white Elegance carnations, English ivy and bristol fairy.

Miss Susan Stone was the bride's maid of honor, and serving as attendants were Mrs. Lorraine Fell, sister of the bride; the bridegroom's sister, Miss Olivia Lopez; Mrs. Mary Pat Fitzgerald and Mrs. Sandy Cushing.

Their identical polyester gowns fashioned with cut-away sleeveless bodices and high necklines, were complemented by hooded capelets trimmed with marabou, and they carried marabou muffs with attached red roses.

Participating as ceremonial flower girls were Christie Trevino and Laura Garza.

Philip Baeza attended Mr. Lopez as best man, and serving as groomsmen were Eloy Zuniga, Gary Jones, Jeff Whitver and Timothy Cantrell. Ushering was done by the bride's brother, Leo Foley Jr., and Steven Walls; acting as mass servers were James Stone, Walnut, and David Baumgart, Sterling, and participating as ringbearer was Terry Mendoza.

The service was followed by a dinner-dance and reception at Emerald Hill Country Club for approximately 270 guests. Music was provided by the "Bliss," and acting as hosts were the bride's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. LaVerne Cook, and Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Welker, the bridegroom's brother-in-law and sister.

A tiered wedding cake, flanked by heart-shaped cakes, was centered by a fountain and was topped by clusters of red roses and baby's breath. The cake, encircled at the base by a garland of white flowers and fern sprays, was served by Mrs. Sue Milligan and Miss Brooke Smith, and in charge of the gift table were Miss Donna Starr, Miss Nancy Jo Friday and Miss Terry Pratt. Guests were registered by the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Paula Foley.

To Florida

Since their wedding trip to Florida, the newlyweds have been residing in Phoenix, Ariz.

The bride, a 1972 graduate of Walnut High School, completed the Practical Nursing program at Sauk Valley College in 1973. Her husband graduated in 1972 from Rock Falls High School, and is presently studying law at Arizona State University.

Trick in hand for birds

By Oswald & James Jacoby
A bird in the hand is known to be worth two in the bush, but a trick in the hand is not always worth even one.

West's queen of diamonds held the first trick and he continued the suit. South ruffed, cashed his ace of spades, led a spade to dummy's king, played a low club and finessed his queen.

West couldn't wait to pounce on that trick with his king. After all, a bird in the hand, etc. He pounced and that was his side's last trick.

"Wouldn't I have looked silly if South had started with ace-queen doubleton in clubs instead of ace-queen-small?" said West.

He sure would have looked silly, but if South had been dealt just two clubs he probably would have led out the ace and then the queen before using dummy's king of spades. Furthermore, East had played the eight of clubs and South could have been sure that eight was either a singleton (in which case no defense would work), or that East was starting a high-low echo and that king of clubs trick would never get away. 9

Polly's Pointers

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—Not too long ago I saw a purse made of cigarette papers shown on a mid-day television program. I hope some reader can tell me how such purses are made.—MRS. L.K.

DEAR MRS. L.K.—This is a really new idea to me. What will they think of next? Surely some of our many readers will enlighten us on the subject and by so doing help the ecology problem.—POLLY.

DEAR POLLY—My Pet Peeve is with women friends who drop by, come in the kitchen door and set their purses on the kitchen counter or table and then go on in to put them down on the dining room table. Handbags are not clean on the bottom. One never thinks where they may have been put down before they are put on a clean table.

My second Pet Peeve is with the lukewarm cup of water one gets with a package of instant coffee in many restaurants. Since so many of us are now going the de-cafeinated way it seems they could brew it and bring it to the table hot like any other coffee.—MRS. P.L.C.

DEAR POLLY—My suggestion for June, whose covered plastic indoor garbage pail reeks with a bad odor, is to put a layer of newspaper in the bottom and then several moth balls. The plastic or paper bag that actually holds the garbage can be removed without discarding the odor preventive until it needs changing.—A GRANDMOTHER.

Polly's note—Frequently spray the inside of the can with a household disinfectant and remove the garbage bag at least once a day.

DEAR POLLY—My daughter, 5, keeps the spaces under the refrigerator, stove and washer free of lint and dirt and thinks she is playing. After wall-to-wall carpeting was installed I gave her a piece about 8 x 36 inches and she turns this upside down and pushes it under the appliances with her foot. She then does the "Twist" for a few minutes and then retracts the carpet strip. When turned over it has an amazing amount of dust adhering to it. I easily dispose of this by shaking, sweeping or vacuuming.—CECILIE.

DEAR POLLY—When the preparation of a meal requires opening a can do not discard the can until after mealtime. In the meantime rinse and set the can on the stove, drop your cooking spoons, etc., in it. You will find you are saved from having to wash your spoon rest or that extra dirty spot on the stove or counter.—JUDY.

AARP Chapter plans meeting

The Lee County Chapter, American Association of Retired Persons, will meet from 2 to 4 p.m. Monday in the Knights of Columbus Home when Donald Foster, a member of the faculty at Sauk Valley College, will present an illustrated program on the southwestern Indians.

Photographs taken at the chapter's recent Christmas dinner will also be on display.

Attention! Prospective brides

Because of misunderstanding on wedding pictures, The Telegraph is asking prospective brides to arrange for good black-and-white wedding pictures for use with wedding stories.

Color photographs and black-and-white prints off a color negative are unsatisfactory for good newspaper reproduction.

Rather than be disappointed by having a picture rejected by the newspaper, we are advising brides to insist on a black-and-white picture shot with black-and-white film.

Dear Ann

by Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: I have some practical advice to the woman whose husband is eating himself to death. Yours was fine—as far as it went. Here's mine:

(1) If you have never worked and have no marketable skills, go back to school NOW, while he is around and still able to pay for it.

(2) If you DO have marketable skills, get them in shape if you are a little rusty. You'll probably want (or need) to go back to work.

(3) Make sure he has all his insurance policies paid up and ask him to tell you all you will need to know if he should keel over suddenly from a heart attack. Most women are in a state of abysmal ignorance when it comes to their husband's financial affairs. They must then depend on attorneys who discover the estate was left in an awful mess. Sometimes there isn't even a valid will. This can mean real trouble as well as horrendous financial losses.

(4) If you don't already know, ask your husband to show you how to change a fuse, how to start the lawnmower, and how to handle balky plumbing. These jobs are very simple—when you know how.

(5) No sex. You don't want to be responsible for his heart attack. And in your situation, you need another baby like you need a case of smallpox.

If you follow my advice you will probably damage his male ego, but you might shock him into taking off those killer pounds. You might also give him additional years so he can enjoy his golden wedding anniversary—and his grandchildren.—Farsighted in Florida

Dear Farsighted: Thanks for an excellent letter. I go along with everything you said—except Point Five.

Sex will not bring on a heart attack—even in the obese. Some men are stricken during sex, but the attack was due anyway.

A denial of intimacy to a fat husband is a punitive act and will not encourage him to lose weight. It will merely provide him with a perfect excuse to seek satisfaction elsewhere.

Dear Ann Landers: I am sure you've already heard more than you want to from women who don't iron their bedsheets and towels, but please, can I have the last word?

In your answer you said, "We iron ours." Anybody with half a working brain knows that a family of two doesn't need more than one person to do the ironing. It came through plenty clear that you have a maid. What you SHOULD have said was, she irons YOURS. I'm signing myself—Reading Between The Lines

Dear Friend: You might be reading "between the lines" but you are obviously missing the whole column from time to time. I straightened out that nightmare several days ago—put on sackcloth and ashes and confessed that I hadn't done any ironing for 25 years, which was why my answer was a bummer. I also offered to eat a generous slice of crow. Do you think now I should offer to drink a cup of hemlock? Please rush your answer. I'm waiting.

Confidential to Want To Stand On My Own Two Feet: It's awfully hard to do when one foot is in your mouth. Try thinking before you speak.

Meeting for Nachusa Unit

Mrs. Marcus Gonnerman entertained the Nachusa Homemakers Extension Unit Tuesday when Mrs. Robert Wolf, first vice chairman, presided.

Roll call was answered by 19 unit members, and introduced as guests were Miss Margaret Gonnerman and Mrs. Larry Crawford and son, Timothy.

The Voluntary Action report form was completed, and Mrs. Gonnerman reviewed the book, "Spirit of '76" written by Eric Sloan.

Mrs. Ivan Wakeley and Mrs. Roger Missman served samples of food they prepared during a major lesson on "Low-Cost Protein Foods," and each member listed suggestions for unit programs and fund-raising activities.

Mrs. John Spangler and Mrs. Missman will represent the unit at a party for residents of the Lee County Nursing Home Feb. 7, and the next meeting was planned for Feb. 4 with Mrs. Alice Hoban.

Card party

Members of the Palmyra Grange have scheduled a card party for 8 p.m. Saturday in the Palmyra Grange Hall when games of 500 and pinochle will be played.

That uncomplicated-looking electronic scoreboard at the track wayside is worth $54,000. The three-digit monitor is part of Burlington-Northern Railroad's scanning system which monitors every wheel on passing trains and checks for "hot boxes," overheated wheel bearings. Three zeroes indicate the train is "cool" but a higher reading can mean heated bearings which cause derailments.

First of its kind

Big industry feels crunch

LONDON — (LENS) — Industrialists around the world have been reading about the coming horrors for far longer than they have felt any of its ripples.

Cash shortage? Oh, the government can bail us out of that one. Fall-off in demand? Well, perhaps not so hot at home — but our exports are doing fine. Change in investment plans? Orders look good and, to tell you the truth, a bit of slack will give us the chance to rebuild stocks, later the models, catch up on the maintenance.

The beginning of every trade cycle downturn is marked by the psychologically understandable reluctance to believe that the good times are over. The boom that is over saw demand for all types of equipment at record levels. Theoretically, the order books are still full, especially for most capital goods, and many of the orders will get translated into sales. But in the last three months or so new orders have been coming in more slowly, and cancellations and requests for delayed delivery are becoming more frequent.

The sensible makers of capital goods have spread their business so that if steelworks building falls, then there is always, say, the chemical industry to supply.

But this time even the most ebullient sales directors are now face to face with the unpleasant fact that the investment plans of most industries in most countries are going to move in the same direction. Nearly all their customers are in trouble to a greater or lesser extent.

But first, the good news. The rush to develop non-Middle East oil sources and non-oil energy sources has been a boon for makers of process plant, steel construction, pipes, pipe-laying and coal mining equipment, and all the ancillary machinery.

The other of this year's shortages — food — has spurred farmers to buy agricultural machinery. Delivery dates of some types of equipment, especially tractors, have stretched out again to six months or more in most European markets.

And now the bad news: —The building and construction industry has turned down viciously in the United States and West Germany as well as in Britain; orders for things like dump trucks are increasingly hard to find.

—The car industry, usually a large buyer of equipment in general and machine tools in particular, will cut back investment plans; shipbuilding orders have tumbled; few airlines are buying new aircraft, even of established designs, let alone new ones like the Lockheed TriStar. So, in turn, there is little prospect of any airframe or engine manufacturer tooling up for a new product.

—The electrical industry will suffer from cutbacks in new generating equipment, following the increase in energy prices, and will suffer from the fall in demand for consumer goods like cookers and refrigerators.

Says Walker is immune from libel prosecution

CHICAGO (AP) — Gov. Daniel Walker should be immune from civil damage actions because he is governor, say lawyers seeking dismissal of a $6 million libel suit filed against the chief executive.

The suit was filed by two lawyers who claim they were libeled by Walker in a press release criticizing their role in a controversial real estate transaction.

Attorneys Allan Blair and David R. Gray, who also are real estate brokers, purchased Lillian Ware's $25,000 Evanston home for $59.61 in delinquent taxes and interest.

They contend in the suit that Walker injured their reputations and good names by his remarks.

Among other things, the press release stated that Walker would act to prevent Blair and Gray from engaging in similar transactions. Although the release referred to them as real estate brokers, the two say they acted strictly as lawyers in the tax takeover.

In asking for dismissal of the suit, Walker attorney Thomas Sullivan said, "Acting as the state's chief executive, Gov. Walker enjoys absolute immunity against civil damages."

Judge Nicholas J. Bua is scheduled to rule Jan. 29 on the suit, which he described as unique. He says there are no legal precedents in Illinois law. Mrs. Ware eventually bought back her home for $7,500, which was raised in the community.

IS NOW A GOOD TIME TO BUY BEDDING? YOU BE THE JUDGE.

1. Naturally, you're acutely aware that prices are rising constantly. On everything. But especially on items requiring quantities of raw material and requiring many hours to produce. Bedding fits that category.
  2. Each new day that dawns, demands more and ever more of the average person. A good night's sleep is becoming more and ever more indispensable. And that good night's sleep can come only with perfect and complete body relaxation on fully supportive bedding.
  3. Today's bedding is as superior to yesterday's as a Cadillac is to a Yellow Cab. First in regard to size — the superb new stretch-out queens, kings, and extra-longs are perfect for today's bigger people. Also in regard to construction and materials — the new balanced spring cores, new cushioning materials, new quilting methods, and flameproof tickings give you a whole new experience in night time comfort and satisfaction.
- With these points in mind, judge for yourself. Is now a good time to insure yourself the best night's sleep — to take advantage of today's low prices — in advance of today's bedding? If your answer short, to buy new bedding? If your answer is "yes!", come in and help yourself to the best sleep at the best savings!

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Could you tell me why my face gets red when I bend down or when the temperature is in the 80s or over? It gets red when I dance the polka or when I work outside when it's hot. I had my blood pressure checked a couple of times and the doctor said it was normal.

I am 44 years old. I must add that when I do strenuous work like lifting bales of hay I have a hard time getting enough air in my lungs. I am female.

DEAR READER — When you bend over the pressure of the blood flowing to your head increases. Whenever any part of the body is below the heart this tends to occur. You can do an experiment if you want. Lie down and hold your bare feet up in the air. Notice that the skin will become pale. Now sit up and watch the color return to

TOMMY NICHLESON, Defendant.

NO. 75-D-3
NOTICE

The requisite Affidavit for Publication having been filed, notice is hereby given you, Tommy Nichleson, that a suit has been filed in the Circuit Court of Lee County, Illinois by the plaintiff, Linda Nichleson, against you for divorce and for other relief; that Summons duly issued against you as provided by law, and which suit is now pending.

Now, therefore, unless you, the said defendant, file your answer to the Complaint in said suit or otherwise make your appearance therein in the office of the Clerk of said Circuit Court of Lee County, Illinois, at the Courthouse in Dixon, Illinois on or before the 12 day of February, 1975 A.D., default may be entered against you at any time after that day, and a Decree entered in accordance with the prayer of said Complaint.

The Doctor Says:

the skin over your feet.

The red color of the face is related to the opening of the small blood vessels in the skin. It may have nothing at all to do with your blood pressure. When you get hot you have to cool the body. So, the small blood vessels open to expose blood to the surface and cool it. Your skin acts as a water cooler temperature control device for your body. So, when the weather is hot your face gets red. When your body is too warm from dancing the polka or even lifting bales of hay the blood is sent to the surface of the skin to cool you off.

DEAR DR. LAMB — Some time back in your column you advised a reader to consult a specialist in "physical medicine."

The terminology is unfamiliar to me and since you mentioned Dr. Janet Travell, President Kennedy's doctor in the White House, who is an osteopath, I'm wondering if a specialist in physical medicine and an osteopath are one and the same.

DEAR READER — First, Dr. Travell was and is a well-known doctor of medicine, not of osteopathy. She was associate professor of pharmacology at Cornell, among her many other accomplishments, before she became President Kennedy's doctor. She is one of the pioneers in muscle function and treatment of muscular disorders, but she is not an osteopath. In point of fact, she graduated number one in her class from medical school, so it is not surprising that she has had such a distinguished career.

Physical Medicine is a specialty in the framework of the medical profession; just as pediatrics, psychiatry, surgery and internal medicine are specialties. These doctors first finish medical school, then specialize in the problems that affect the musculoskeletal system. They are involved in work related to rehabilitation, from paralysis due to polio — not so common now, thankfully, to stroke problems and loss or decrease of function of any part of the muscular system.

You may also have a misconception of modern trained osteopaths. Schools of osteopathy train doctors to take care of patients with all manner of medical problems, not just problems of the muscles and bones.

Strip mining marches on

HAZARD, Ky. (NEA)—Especially, Ollie Combs' property has never been much. It's 40 acres, mostly up and down, at the head of a hollow and the rear of underdeveloped ruralia in the Kentucky Appalachians where "even the weeds have a hard time a makin' it."

Nevertheless, it's all she has—and her great pride. Thus, when a coal company rudely invaded the land a decade ago, with strip mining intentions and machinery as tall as the trees, widow Combs said no. She said it so forcefully, in fact, positioning herself in front of bulldozers and so forth, that she became something of an instant mountain legend. She was arrested for her protests, put on television talk shows, and flown to Washington as an elderly darling of the then-growing anti-strip mining movement.

Today, widow Combs has retired from the war against stripping. She says she's too old now—70—for combat. She does keep up "some" with strip mine news, she adds, but for the most part she's out of it. She spends her time quietly, caring for a paralyzed relative in a dilapidated home on the flattest portion of the 40 acres. Meanwhile, all about, the strippers still tear up the land.

The departure of this warhorse is of more than passing interest in the local and national strip mining controversy. For she has retreated not only because of age, but in the face of changing odds favoring the other side. Times in America, hard, have swung against the sensitive, militant, defiant approach to surface coal mining and toward "necessary" acquiescence. Thus widow Combs and other anti-strippers, once heroes, are now, in light of energy shortages and industrial stagnation, considered dangerous by many of the fearful.

The trend away from the hard line on stripping is of course most apparent in coal country. Ken Ratliff, of Kentucky's Bureau of Reclamation, says this state as a whole is still "very concerned" about surface mining abuses, "but coal counties are something else." Bumper stickers in the hills proclaim "We Dig Coal." Mining area newspapers trumpet statistics which show a doubling in Kentucky of strip-mining activity. Individuals often equate conservationists with anti-Americanism: "What do they want, the Arabs to take over?"

The pro-stripping attitude carries no mystery here. Coal at present is synonymous with prosperity. Oldsters who remember the Appalachian dollar gloom of yesteryear, and read about enormous problems elsewhere even now, say with accuracy that strip mining here is the difference between lower middle-class survival and desperate privation.

Says one coal executive: "Companies are charged $35 an acre and $150 for each permit to dig. Plus there is a 35- to 40-cent severance tax per ton. Half the acreage and permit charges are given to the counties, and a percentage of the severance tax. Hell, that's big money. You don't find people around here willing to forego it for the sake of a few trees."

And so it is that while some people do profit, the landscape suffers. Despite a fairly stiff state reclamation law, great stretches of the surrounding hills have been wounded. Large numbers of giant coal trucks dominate and damage the highways. Roadside processing plants, at full steam, throw out ever widening circles of scorched earth. The air is heavy with the smells and grime of cold coal cash.

Bakalis to form 'pressure group'

CHICAGO (AP)—Outgoing State Schools Superintendent Michael J. Bakalis said today he intends to form a citizens pressure group to influence Illinois education when he leaves office—and he left the door open for a return to politics.

He hinted he might challenge Gov. Daniel Walker in the Democratic primary in 1976 if Walker's performance does not improve during the current legislative session. His decision to reenter politics is six to eight months away, Bakalis said.

He also said he might consider running for Congress. Bakalis, 36, leaves office Jan. 13 because his job as state superintendent of public instruction will be eliminated by the new state Constitution, which stipulates that the job of the state's top educator be appointive rather than elective.

Bakalis, who supported Walker in 1972, said, "I have been disappointed in his performance... There was an opportunity to put reality into the rhetoric" of establishing a patronage-free politics. This was not fulfilled, he said.

Walker could be beaten, Bakalis said, if he does not govern well.

He also said he would seriously consider becoming Chicago school superintendent if the job were offered to him.

When elected in 1970, Bakalis was the Democratic party's top vote getter, even collecting more ballots than Sen. Adlai Stevenson III.

Bakalis' citizens pressure group will be called the Illinois Committee for Educational Excellence. He said it will be a statewide coalition that would lobby for the taxpayer and the "educational consumer." Describing it as a combination Nader's Raiders and Common Cause, two nationwide citizen pressure groups, Bakalis said the group "will place special emphasis on parent and student rights."

He said the group would go to court if necessary to fight for these rights.

Bakalis' other plans include writing a book on the politics of education, teaching and lecturing and directing a foundation-sponsored education reform project.

Official seal

PICASSO'S OFFICIAL handwritten "d'accord" on this photo of his sculpture, "The Bather," sealed the deal between the Spanish artist and Norwegian artist Carl Nesjar who supervised the construction of Picasso's 28-foot piece. It was originally to be constructed in Copenhagen but now will be displayed at the Gould Center in Rolling Meadows, Ill.

Comptroller vows to speed up bill payments

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (AP)—Comptroller George Lindberg says he has created a special task force within his department to speed up the payment of bills owed by the state.

"There are delays in processing bills at the agency level in Illinois of up to 60 days and more," Lindberg said in a statement. "This is a disgrace. If taxpayers at home paid their bills that slowly, the bill collectors would hound them relentlessly."

Lindberg said the task force's first step would be to send a questionnaire to all state departments and agencies in an effort to find out exactly why bills are held up.

The comptroller also announced he has stopped paying bills submitted by the state Civil Defense Agency because its director had not been properly appointed.

Lindberg said he would continue to process the department's payroll but would not pay the salary of Civil Defense Director Erie Jones or other agency bills. He said Jones' name had not been submitted to the state Senate for confirmation by Gov. Daniel Walker.

The Worry Clinic

By DR. GEORGE W. CRANE
CASE C 646: Debby G., aged 22, is secretary to a college chemistry professor.
"Dr. Crane," she moaned, "he nauseates me by some of his childish habits."
"In fact, I hesitate even to mention them to you, lest you think I am making them up."
"For example, he picks his nose while he is dictating letters."
"And as if that isn't bad enough, he then licks the excreta from his fingers, like a child sucking on a lollipop! Imagine!"
"Besides, he has horrible 'B.O.'," so I doubt if he takes a bath even once per month!
"I almost retch when I lay my finished letters in front of him for his signature."
"For his ears are full of wax and his shoulders are covered with dandruff."

"Dr. Crane, if he were a senile old professor, I could excuse many of these faults, but he is only 37."
"I can't understand why he doesn't watch the TV commercials and take some of their hints."
"Do you suppose he is so self-centered that he can't imagine how he appears to other people?"
"And he is a bachelor so could that explain his many violations of social etiquette and good grooming?"
One-Way Streets
Many scientists are such introverts that they look out on life through what I call a one-way mental street.
They lack empathy!
So they have difficulty identifying themselves with other people who surround them.
Lacking an elastic imagination, they can't project themselves into the shoes of their companions and then, figuratively, look back at themselves!

Artists, fiction writers, salesmen, mothers and others noted for tact or diplomacy, have elastic imaginations, so they can sympathize with others around them.
For sympathy, as well as humor, are based on an extroverted outlook and a two-way mental street.
Scrooge was such an extreme introvert that he couldn't empathize with his employees and thus he lacked sympathy.
Silas Marner was another extreme introvert who finally became socially oriented when little Eppie toddled into his cabin.
Debby wonders if the fact her boss is a bachelor could explain his offensive personal habits.

It could, but his dandruff, halitosis, "B.O.," ear wax and nauseating nasal behavior could also explain why no girl has grown romantic about him.
So I urged Debby to use the "Compliment Club" technique and try to praise him into the right direction.
Meanwhile, I gave her a copy of my "Tests for Employees and Employers," asking her to have him rate her thereon, hoping he'd reciprocate the request.
So send for that rating Scale, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.
For it is an objective test that permits you to make constructive criticisms without incurring anger or ill will!
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of the Dixon Evening Telegraph, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs, when you send for one of his booklets.)

Officials probe cause of Nachusa house fire

A one-story Nachusa house with an attic and basement was heavily damaged by fire and smoke Wednesday. The Dixon Rural Fire Department was called to the house at 10:30 a.m. one block west of the Nachusa Road in the village. Heavy smoke prevented firemen from gaining entry to the house. Flames which engulfed the walls also destroyed the floor of the home, which was owned by Claude Currens and occupied by the John Maronde family.

The cause of the fire, which was extinguished in 3 1/2 hours, has not been determined. The family dog and a bird were lost in the fire.

One fireman sustained minor injuries in fighting the blaze. The Nachusa and Grand Detour stations of the Dixon Rural Fire Department, along with the Franklin Grove Fire Department, were called to extinguish the fire.

Peorians band together to help vendor

PEORIA, Ill. (AP) — Just before Christmas a customer handed blind vendor George Bruketta a $5 bill and told him it was a $10. While Bruketta went to get a friend to check the denomination, the patron opened the cash register and left with $180.

Bruketta, who runs a stand at City Hall and has been the victim of several similar crimes, got a break Tuesday night from the City Council. It voted to urge Peorians to contribute funds to buy him a photoelectric cell that reads money denominations automatically.

Councilman Warren Reynolds, sponsor of the resolution, dubbed the drive "Let's Do It for George." He said any surplus funds donated would be used to buy the $169 photoelectric cells for four other blind vendors in Peoria.

American Motors' 1975 Pacer is a wide small car unique in concept and designed to appeal to a broad range of car buyers. The two-door Pacer, with a 100-inch wheelbase, is offered in three versions—a standard model, a sporty "X" and a luxury D-L model shown above. It has an overall length of 171.5 inches, making it easier to park and maneuver. The curbside door is four inches longer than the driver's door for easy entry and exit of rear-seat passengers. Interior room matches or exceeds that of large cars. Optimum visibility results from its expansive window area and low belt line. The Pacer is covered by the company's Buyer Protection Plan which provides free correction of any factory defect in material or workmanship for 12 months or 12,000 miles. It is scheduled for introduction in early March.

AMC's new Pacer

The proposed new standards were drawn up by the Occupational Safety and Health Administration in the Labor Department. In their petition last October, the 40 groups said the proposed regulations "are so vague that they will permit housing with no windows, no nearby toilet facilities, no screens, no adequate space and no electricity" if an employer

Farm groups push for new housing standards

WASHINGTON (AP) — If a series of hearings scheduled soon by the Labor Department on proposed new federal standards for farm worker housing does not result in substantive improvements, then full-scale congressional hearings will be sought, says a farm labor spokesman.

Raphael Semmes, executive secretary of the National Association of Farm Worker Programs, said that after the proposed regulations were announced last September the plan by the group was to seek congressional hearings.

But the Labor Department later called for a series of its own hearings and so the association tabled its plan for congressional hearings, at least temporarily.

"We felt that if these hearings were not held, then congressional hearings would be called for," Semmes told a reporter Wednesday. "We're going to see how they go. If they turn out to be a device to distract attention, then we'll ask for congressional hearings."

The Labor department hearings have been set for: Washington, D.C., Jan. 20; Toledo, Ohio, Jan. 23; Fort Lauderdale, Fla., Jan. 27; Corpus Christi, Texas, Jan. 30; and Portland, Ore., Feb. 4.

Forty groups, including Semmes' association, joined last Oct. 23 in asking the Labor Department to delay approval of the new housing proposals until hearings could be held. The department's decision to schedule the forthcoming hearings followed that request.

Park district hires director

ROCHELLE—Members of the Flag-Rochelle Community Park District hired Robert Kent, formerly of Glen Ellyn, as Park District director at their regular meeting Wednesday.

Kent was the unanimous choice of the commissioners, after they had reviewed 74 applications for the position.

Kent replaces Dick Murray, who resigned last Oct. 1. He was hired at $13,500 a year, and receives car mileage.

The board heard David Kasmar, a representative of the Rochelle Snowmobile Club, when he asked the Park District for facilities for classes to instruct a group of 30 to 120-year-olds. Class instruction will include the safety, clothing and maintenance of snowmobiles. Students must pass a written examination and an outdoor driving course. If students pass the course they will receive a patch, certificate, and a license.

The board was told of poachers in Skare Park, northwest of Rochelle, and the Park District president, Don Horner, advised people to contact the Police Department if they know of any people hunting on the land. Horner will contact the police department to see if the land can be patrolled. The land is posted for no hunting.

The board paid a bill to D. R. Gilbert & Son, Contractors, for $3,000 for the cleaning of Spring Lake.

Senate President Partee denies party split

Partee said after his election. "I'm really not looking backward. The Democratic members of the Senate are together and are looking futuristically toward doing things for people."

Partee indicated that some of the discussions during the recess centered on members of the dissident group receiving certain committee assignments and a greater say generally in party business.

The Chicago Democrat immediately named Sen. Terry Bruce, D-Oleyn, as an assistant majority leader. Bruce was one of the eight Democrats who withheld their votes for Partee, and his selection was seen as one of the major concessions.

"We just wanted a reassurance that everyone would be treated fairly."

And another of the eight, Rep. Kenneth Buzbee, D-Carbondale, said: "There were no promises asked and no promises made, including future appointment of committee members."

Other Democrats who held out were Vince DeMuzio of Carlinville, Vivian Hickey of Rockford, Jerome Joyce of Reddick, William Morris of Waukegan, Dawn Clark Netch of Chicago and Don Wooten of Rock Island.

Asked whether the eight were acting on behalf of Gov. Daniel Walker to block Partee's election, Bruce said, "Absolutely not. I am not part of a Walker faction or any other faction."

Partee immediately issued a statement outlining plans to abolish absentee voting in committees and a proposal for limited joint rules with the House.

He also said he would recommend a timetable for introduction and processing of bills in an attempt to avoid the logjam of legislation that traditionally occurs at the end of the spring session.

Sen. William C. Harris, R-Pontiac, the outgoing Senate President, was elected leader of the Republicans who are in the minority by a 34-25 margin.

In addition to Bruce, Partee named Sens. James H. Donnewald of Breese and Philip J. Rock of Chicago as assistant majority leaders. Both had served under Partee as assistant minority leaders in the 1973-74 session.

Harris reapointed Sens. John A. Graham of Barrington and Howard R. Mohr of Forest Park as his assistant minority leaders.

The pay increases for state officials range from 3 to 43 per cent. Four department directors will earn $44,000 a year under the measure, making them among the highest paid such state officials in the nation.

Judges would receive pay hikes ranging from $5,000 to $13,500 a year. However, a portion of the increase must be provided by local governments.

Walker has yet to act on several other measures passed last month by the 1973-74 General Assembly. Among these are bills establishing a grant program for senior citizens, changing the workmen's compensation law, and providing procedures for reclamation of strip mines.

Constitutional experts believe that Walker could now veto any of those measures passed by the old General Assembly, and the new legislature could not legally attempt to overturn his decision.

The eight reportedly also were seeking key committee assignments, which will be announced later, and a greater voice in party affairs generally.

The others who held out were Kenneth Buzbee of Carbondale, Vince DeMuzio of Carlinville, Vivian Hickey of Rockford, Jerome Joyce of Reddick, William Morris of Waukegan, Dawn Clark Netch of Chicago and Don Wooten of Rock Island.

"We resolved some differences," said Buzbee.

Record inventory of new cars plagues dealers, workers

DETROIT (AP) — Despite unprecedented production cutbacks, the nation's car dealers are still plagued with a record inventory of unsold new models, auto analysts say.

The traffic jam of new cars is more bad news for America's auto workers. About 280,000 of them will be on layoff for some or all of January because of the industry's longest sales slump in 30 years.

The inventories also mean continued pressure on the big auto companies to roll back the major increases they made in sticker prices for the 1975 models.

Analysts within and outside the industry estimate the burgeoning supply of cars waiting for buyers would keep dealers in stock for between 93 and 98 days, based on December's lethargic selling rate.

"That's a record for any time," said Arvid Jouppi of Deerfield and Charles Co. in New York.

December normally is the slowest selling month of the year, but at least one analyst predicts another bad sales month will keep the inventory at 90 days or more at the end of January.

Chrysler Corp. and American Motors are stuck with the most burdensome supplies, the analysts say. Chrysler's dealer inventory is estimated at between four months and 138 days. AMC is said to be saddled with between 112 and 124 days' worth of cars.

The industrywide supply, put at between 1.65 million and 1.68 million vehicles, does not include thousands of autos the car companies are stockpiling in vacant assembly plant lots while waiting for dealer orders to arrive.

The record inventory is about double the supply which analysts say is safe for the industry. "Ideally you want a 45-day supply. When you get up to 55 to 60 days it starts getting troublesome," Jouppi said.

Another analyst said the industry is used to an average 60-day supply. "They (the companies) don't like 70 days, and anything over 80 is too much."

Concern over Chrysler's huge supply of unsold models has led the company to offer cash rebates of up to $400 to new car buyers in a five-week promotion beginning Monday.

Jouppi said Chrysler, the first auto firm to make a substantial cut in new model prices, was forced into the action to help dealers unclutter their overcrowded showrooms.

The auto industry had 1.73 million cars on hand at the end of November. They translated into a then-record 85-day supply, however, because the daily sales pace at the time was brisker than in December.

In December 1973, the inventory stood at 70 days.

Sales last month were off 25 per cent from a year earlier and the second lowest for the month in 15 years. Sales for 1974 fell 23 per cent from 1973.

The companies have sought to reduce their mounting stockpiles by closing plants, trimming production and laying off workers. January layoffs will affect 40 per cent of the industry's 678,000 blue collar workers. About 150,000 face open-ended layoffs.

Chrysler's inventory compares with an 88-day supply at this time a year ago. AMC's supply compares with a 44-day inventory in December 1973.

Ford Motor Co.'s inventory is estimated at 95 to 100 days, and General Motors has a stockpile that would last 80 to 87 days

SVC chorus to begin rehearsal

The Sauk Valley College Community Chorus will begin rehearsing Johann Sebastian Bach's "St. Luke Passion" at 8 p.m. Tuesday in the rehearsal room of the Music Department at SVC.

Max Guinnup, chorus director, said that Bach, during his life, composed five complete settings of "The Passion." Only two of these versions are familiar to us today—the "Saint John" and the "Saint Matthew Passions." The third, "The Passion According to Saint Luke," differs in a number of respects from the "John" and "Matthew Passions" and, according to Guinnup, would appear to be a much earlier setting.

The work is predominantly in the "old" style, leaning heavily on the use of chorales and employing relatively few lyric and dramatic arias and choruses. The arias and the choruses are not lacking in the power and the individuality characteristic of Bach's finest cantatas from his early years.

As accustomed as we are to J. S. Bach's music and as unaccustomed as we are to hearing the "St. Luke Passion," Guinnup said that such beauty as found in the familiar "Passion of St. John" and the "Saint Matthew" may be found in abundance in this fresh and remarkable score which encompasses consistent dramatic interest together with rich melodic variety.

Membership in the community chorus is again open to anyone 18 years of age and older who enjoys group singing. A membership fee of $5 is assessed to cover costs of any participant who does not want college credit. Any college student who wishes to belong may also join by registering for credit in MUS 106 or by paying the above membership fee. Call 288-5511, Sauk Valley College, extension 258 or 275 for further information.

Sauk real estate course gets okay

A course entitled "Real Estate Transactions," Sauk Valley College's first offering in the real estate field, recently received state approval and will be taught at SVC on Monday nights this spring semester beginning January 20.

Only one class will be offered this spring although Dr. Williams said it is the first in what Sauk Valley hopes will become a series of real estate courses designed to train brokers and practitioners in the real estate field.

The class, which will meet in Room 2C10 at 7 p.m., is entitled Real Estate Transactions (BUS 240). The tuition for this three credit course will be $42. It will be taught by Frank Baracani, an officer with First Federal Savings & Loan Association in Dixon.

Agriculture Department favors boost in milk price guarantee for farmers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department is looking with some favor on a request by dairy cooperatives for a public hearing on a proposal to boost the government's minimum price guaranteed farmers for milk sold on the fluid market, the kind on retail shelves.

John C. Blum, associate administrator of the department's Agricultural Marketing Service, said late Wednesday he favored holding the hearing requested by the National Milk Producers Federation and will urge his superiors to schedule it soon.

The federation wants USDA to put a higher minimum floor price in the government's formula used to compute what farmers get for Class I milk sold for fluid purposes in the nation's 61 federal milk marketing order areas.

Patrick B. Healy, federation secretary, explained the proposal in a letter to Blum and asked the department to schedule a public hearing on it.

President Ford vetoed a bill last Friday which would have boosted the basic federal price support for manufacturing-grade milk an equivalent of about six cents a half-gallon.

On the same day Agriculture Secretary Earl L. Butz announced a compromise boost in the basic milk price support to $7.24 per 100 pounds from $6.57, which had been in effect since last spring. The new rate, which Butz said will stay in place during the coming milk marketing year which runs through March 31, 1976, represented about half the increase vetoed by Ford.

Although the basic support increase — which was specifically for manufacturing-grade milk — will mean some adjustment in Class I milk minimum prices also, that will not take effect until March because of a two-month lag in applying the adjustment formula.

Thus, the federation — which represents milk producer cooperatives nationally — wants USDA to install an artificial floor price in the Class I formula so that producers of that type milk can benefit immediately.

Blum, whose agency handles federal milk price regulations, told a reporter the request for a hearing on the proposal "seems rather a logical adjunct to what was announced last week" involving the higher price support of manufacturing milk, used to make cheese, butter and other products.

The formula price sought by the federation is $7.30 per 100 pounds. That would translate into about $9.40 per 100 pounds of Class I milk beginning Jan. 15 and through all of February.

Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., says he will introduce a bill to boost the basic milk support to 100 per cent of parity — $9.04 per 100 pounds for manufacturing milk against the vetoed bill's rate of 85 per cent or $7.69 per 100 pounds.

Nabbed by deputies

David D. Moore, 25, Ashton, was arrested and charged on two counts Wednesday night by Lee County Sheriff's Deputies.

DMZ meetings go on despite scene

PANMUNJOM, Korea (AP) — Hot war, cold war and now during detente, the Americans still meet briefly every day with North Koreans at this truce site in the bleak Korean demilitarized zone.

And every month or so the American-led United Nations Command or the Communist side calls a full-dress meeting of the Military Armistice Commission made up of the nations which fought in the 1950-53 war.

The meetings at this isolated collection of metal buildings where the armistice was signed usually turn into a propaganda forum with one side denouncing the other for alleged violations of the 22-year-old agreement.

Despite their drawbacks, the meetings remain the main negotiating channel for Washington and Seoul in their dealings with North Korea, one of the most hardline of the Communist nations. Presumably the years of talking have contributed to keeping the peace.

Panmunjom has become a tourist attraction and is the one place visitors can see North Korean soldiers and get a glimpse of the uninhabited demilitarized zone. About 20,000 visitors took the 35-mile bus ride north from Seoul last year to visit the negotiating site.

"While Panmunjom has never accomplished much substantial," a U.N. Command officer recently said, "at the same time it has been effective in that we have talked."

For many people around the world the name Panmunjom came to symbolize the frustrating business of negotiating with Communist nations during the cold war era. Thousands of soldiers on opposing sides were killed during the two years of talking before a truce was agreed upon in July 1953.

During those two years of talking the battle lines stabilized, but Americans continued to die at such remote spots as "Pork Chop Hill," "Old Baldy," and "Heartbreak Ridge."

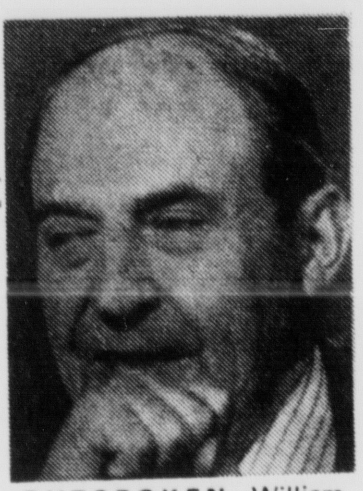

Eventually an armistice was arranged at Panmunjom. It came after the Communists agreed with the U.N. Command that North Korean and Chinese prisoners of war held in the South would have a choice in whether to return home.

Panmunjom grabbed world attention again in 1968 when it was the site of negotiations for return of the imprisoned crew of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo seized by North Korea. The seamen came south across the "Bridge of No Return" to freedom at Panmunjom.

The negotiating site now has become the center for Red Cross and direct low-level governmental talks between North and South Korea. The talks are stalemated, but the eventual goal is unification of the divided Korean peninsula.

Setting own hours improves morale

STAMFORD, Conn. (AP) — Allowing clerical workers to set their own work hours each week improves employee morale and reduces absenteeism, says a large firm who has tried it.

Pitney Bowes, a manufacturer of business equipment, experimented with the concept among more than 250 of its employees late last year and now plans to expand the program.

"It's destroyed the old adage that people don't work if you don't watch them carefully," said Jerome Perrone, manager of policies and practices who directed the experiment.

The program, which is rare in Connecticut but is winning some acceptance elsewhere, is working out so well at Pitney Bowes it probably will be extended to two or three times the current 250 participants, according to James L. Turrentine, vice president for employee relations.

"I see this as part of a general trend business is coming to," he said. "It is one way of acknowledging that employees are grown up."

A three-month test of the flexible-time program produced an "overwhelmingly positive" acceptance by employees and supervisors alike, Perrone said.

Flexible time allows employees considerable freedom in setting their schedules from day to day during the regular five-day work week. They may start any time after 7 a.m. and may work up to 6 p.m. The only time they must be on the job is during the so-called "come period" of each day, that busy time when each department needs its full staff.

Flexible time allows employees to put in more than the regular 7½ hours one day and have the corresponding time off another day to shop, go fishing, tend children at home or anything else.

"Lateness with this kind of program literally becomes nonexistent," Perrone said. Each employee merely begins his or her workday on arrival by using a personal plastic "key" to start a clock-like timing device designed for the program by a New Jersey firm. The desktop device records only the amount of time the person puts in during the week, not the daily amount.

During the trial period, Pitney Bowes found participants were absent less often, on the average of one hour per employee each month.

At that rate, extending the program to 2,000 employees earning the hourly average wage of $4.15 would save the company nearly $100,000 in three months, Perrone said.

A survey of participants showed 98 of them used schedule changes for leisure time, 92 to attend to personal business, 46 to avoid rush-hour congestion and 32 to spend more time with their families.

"Most people, believe it or not, will work their regular schedules anyway," Perrone said, adding that the important factor is their freedom to rearrange their schedule if they wish.

London tour nostalgic trip to Victorian days

By JAMES R. PEIPERT
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — With Britannia hard-pressed to stay afloat, much less rule the waves, Dennis Severs and his horse, Mecklenburg-Strelitz, capitalize on nostalgia for a lost empire.

Severs, from Escondido, Calif., runs carriage tours through London back streets that have changed little since Queen Victoria presided over an empire that embraced nearly a third of the earth's land surface.

"Each tour is guaranteed to leave you mourning an empire that ended too soon," predicts his advertising brochure in these times of rampant inflation, labor unrest and complaints about a decline in the quality of life.

"If you admire English history at all you can't help be sort of awed by the Victorians," Severs, 25, said in an interview. "It was the most dynamic and yet most civilized part of English history — always thought of as being very vulgar and awful but now coming into its own again."

Severs calls his 1850s Sefton carriage — which he rescued from an Essex barn and restored — a "time machine" that takes his passengers back to when "the sun never set on the British Empire and they sang about their nation as the land of hope and glory and the mother of the free."

Both Severs and his coachman, 23-year-old Briton Antony Withers, a dropout from an executive trainee program, wear top hats and Prince Albert coats for the 1½-hour tours spiced with gossip anecdotes about the era.

Severs said most of his customers during the three years he has run the tours have been English or American — some nostalgic for empire days, some wanting to see the England they read about as children, or simply wanting to avoid hordes of other tourists.

Severs said he has noted among the English the onset of "apathy, fear and nostalgia" since he came here for a visit 10 years ago, paid two return visits and then decided to stay.

Severs avoids London's busy thoroughfares and concentrates on what he calls the "hidden city" — quiet streets of Georgian, Regency and Victorian townhouses and the tree-filled squares never far away. But occasionally a main street is unavoidable.

"There's the London everyone knows," Severs said as Mecklenburg-Strelitz clipped across busy Cromwell Road, near the West London air terminal and dozens of hotels, and passed by an all-night Kentucky fried chicken parlor.

"But all we have to do is turn to the right or to the left and we're back in the Victorian era. It's not going to throw itself at you. It's a city entirely hidden and wishes, of course, to remain so."

Some of the neighborhoods have changed so little over the years little imagination is needed to conjure Phileas Fogg racing to Pall Mall to collect his bet after girdling the globe in 80 days or Beatrix Potter sitting in a garden telling children about Peter Rabbit and Jemima Puddleduck.

As the carriage sedately passed imposing rows of white townhouses in fashionable Kensington, Severs told his passengers:

"Remember it was in these very morning rooms that they picked up their newspapers to find that President Lincoln had been assassinated in Washington, to read about the charge of the Light Brigade and Florence Nightingale, about 'Dr. Livingstone, I presume,' and, of course, the great mobs of men moving through the narrow lanes of the east end of London with torches in search of Jack the Ripper."

These were the days when London was the capital of a far-flung empire, Severs said. "It was the workshop of the world, the chief merchant, the insurance underwriter, the banker, the creditor, the ship-builder and freight carrier."

"In the drawing rooms the ladies were discussing the price of crinoline and the mistresses of the Prince of Wales," Severs continued.

"All that hard work, all the enterprise and greatness of the Victorian era came to a peak on one day in 1897 when Queen Victoria celebrated her diamond jubilee — 60 years on the throne," Severs said.

Four years later, in 1901, she died. And some superstitious Englishmen point out, Severs said, that "13 years after her death the world went to war."

Inmates named in '72 slayings

BENTON, Ill. (AP) — A Franklin County grand jury has indicted two Chicago men for the 1972 slaying of a Southern Illinois University student.

Reuben Taylor and Michael Clark were accused Tuesday of murdering Michael Gerchenson, 19, of Highland Park, an SIU sophomore. Gerchenson's body was found beside Interstate 57 near Benton.

Taylor and Clark already are serving lengthy prison terms on other charges. A third man believed connected with the slaying, Edward Moran, was found dead in a Waukegan jail cell last year.

Clark and Taylor are accused of murder, armed robbery and kidnapping in Tuesday's indictments.

In other action, the grand jury indicted Russell Bryant, a county sheriff's deputy, for alleged bribery and official misconduct and Mrs. Barbara Reeves of Whittington, with murdering her husband.

Bryant is accused of accepting $400 for his intercession in a criminal case and of pocketing $400 entrusted to him for repayment of a theft victim.

Mrs. Reeves allegedly shot her husband, Charles, on a Benton street Aug. 21, 1974.

Consumers have put their almighty foot down, ask Chrysler

NEW YORK (AP) — During the past few years of economic disruption many people thought it best to anticipate more of the worst. Prices would continue to rise, values would erode, jobs would become insecure, debt would rise.

This was a new world of bad problems that didn't respond to old remedies. Economic laws, especially supply and demand, were suspended, it was said. Anything was possible, but the worst was likely to prevail.

But now that the worst is happening — a deep recession accompanied by sharply higher prices — you begin to detect, barely, some of the corrective pressures being exerted from those old rules of the market place.

Supply and demand? While prices continue to rise there is growing evidence that the law still breathes and that it isn't going to expire either.

Raw material prices have been dropping. Purchasing agents report the price cutting is becoming common. Retail merchants are offering sales, as they find themselves with clogged shops and resistant buyers.

While it looked for a while that the consumer would continue to chase prices to the sky, even going into debt to do so, it is obvious now that they have put their foot down. Ask Chrysler Corp. about that.

Chrysler, and for a time all the auto makers, were convinced they could continue at maximum production despite price increases. But the public drew the line, inventories piled up, and price cuts now seem inevitable.

Thus the law, which states that prices tend to fall as supply exceeds demand, seems to be exerting itself. But what about the belief that lower prices induce more demand? For auto makers it remains to be demonstrated.

Ford Motor Co. experimented with lower prices last fall but found the response weak, leading some marketing men to conclude that the prices weren't low enough or that the market had been wrong dry of sales for months ahead.

While the failure of consumers to respond quickly to lower prices by Ford casts some doubt on the economic maxim, consumers are proving another point: they do have common sense in regard to credit. Some observers were beginning to wonder.

A rising rate of payment delinquencies and bankruptcies has begun to sound alarm bells among some leaders. It is no secret that many Americans preferred to borrow money to maintain their standard of living rather than cut back.

A more sensible, cautious attitude now seems to prevail, even though many individuals and businesses are badly overextended. In November, the reduction of credit outstanding was the largest on record for one month, some $402 million.

Equally significant, it was the first real downturn in four years.

Jesuit is teacher, chaplain and dealer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — From the chapel to the classroom to the blackjack table, Father Thomas Higgins, a Jesuit priest, carries his message to the people.

Higgins, 42, is assistant chaplain and professor at Loyola Marymount University in suburban Westchester. During the summer months he works as a blackjack dealer in Las Vegas.

In a recent interview at the university, Higgins said: "You can't preach Christ if your experience is entirely different from that of other people."

"If priests were cab drivers or bus drivers or if they took different jobs, they would be much more all kinds of people."

He has lived in hotels where rooms rent for $3 for two nights and where, he says: "It seemed like I was the only guy without a tattoo."

"I learned a lot about myself," the priest said. "I want to expand my horizons. I never want to stop growing."

Higgins worked the graveyard shift at the Royal Inn Casino. His customers sometimes would get his good counsel, although they seldom found out that the man behind the red satin tie was a priest. "Sometimes I tell people: 'You're drunk. Why don't you go home. You're going to drop your whole load,'" Higgins said.

Higgins says that he does not fit the popular image of a Jesuit priest. But that does not seem to bother him.

"The image of priests and nuns are that they are detached and aloof," he said. "If you're detached and aloof, what good are you?"

In the National Football League

Stabler named Most Valuable

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer
NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Quarterback Ken Stabler of the Oakland Raiders was named the National Football League's Most Valuable Player for the 1974 season by The Associated Press today.

Stabler, who earlier this week was named the Offensive Player of the Year, also heads the All-Pro team announced Wednesday.

A left-hander who led the NFL with 25 touchdown passes during the regular season, Stabler was an easy winner in the AP poll of sports writers and broadcasters who cover the NFL. He received 36 of a possible 78 votes, easily outdistancing Terry Metcalf of the St. Louis Cardinals, who was second with 10. Minnesota's Chuck Foreman finished third with five.

Stabler led the Raiders to the American Conference Western Division championship, completing 57.4 per cent of his passes for 1,469 yards. Then he piloted Oakland past Miami in the opening round of the playoffs, eliminating the defending champions on a touchdown pass in the final minute of the game. A week later, the Raiders lost the AFC championship game to the Pittsburgh Steelers.

A graduate of the University of Alabama where he learned his football under Bear Bryant, Stabler was the Raiders' second round draft selection in 1968. He was a reserve until 1973, starting only two games.

In 1973, he won the Oakland quarterback job from Daryle Lamonica, taking over in the season's third game and starting the last 11. Under Stabler, the Raiders were 9-2-1 that year and then 12-2 this season.

Joining him in the All-Pro backfield are running backs Otis Armstrong of Denver and O.J. Simpson of Buffalo. Armstrong was the NFL rushing champion with 1,407 yards and Simpson gained 1,125. Simpson, last year's MVP when he set an NFL rushing record with 2,003 yards, received just one MVP vote this season.

The All-Pro wide receivers were Oakland's Cliff Branch and Drew Pearson of Dallas with Denver's Riley Odoms named at tight end. The rest of the offensive line had tackles Ron Yary of Minnesota and Art Shell of Oakland, guards Larry Little of Miami and Gene Upshaw of Oakland and center Jim Langer of Miami.

On defense, the All-Pro front four had Minnesota's Alan Page, Jack Youngblood of Los Angeles and Pittsburgh teammates L. C. Greenwood and Joe Greene, the Defensive Player of the Year. Green Bay's Ted Hendricks, Bill Bergey of Philadelphia and Pittsburgh's Jack Ham were the linebackers chosen with Jake Scott of Miami and Tony Greene of Buffalo the safeties and Robert James of Buffalo and Kansas City's Emmitt Thomas the cornerbacks.

No sparrows but Fran has sore arm

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Has Coach Bud Grant created another "issue," another smoke-screen to divert attention from the mounting pressures of a Super Bowl game, another way of psyching up his Minnesota Vikings? It looks that way. It appears he's found his new, improved version of "sparrows in the showers," and this time the sparrows seem to be roosting on quarterback Fran Tarkenton's valuable right arm.

Last year, when Super Bowl week was threatened with being enveloped by a mammoth yawn, Grant came up with an issue, what he called the Vikings' less-than-satisfactory practice facilities. Eventually, the whole thing was characterized by Grant's throwaway line about sparrows.

This week, too, was being underwhelmed by the ritualistic pregame practices and news conferences as the Vikings and Pittsburgh Steelers prepared for Super Bowl IX. Only briefly did something newsworthy surface.

First it was the viral infection that has hospitalized Pittsburgh defensive end Dwight White for four straight nights. Then it was Tarkenton's brief verbal swipe at Oakland's Ken Stabler and Miami's Paul Warfield, who had bad-mouthed both Super Bowl teams. Then it was the calf injury that is likely to keep Minnesota offensive tackle Charles Goodrum out of Sunday's National Football League championship game at Tulane Stadium.

Still, there was no focus for anyone's attention. There were no sparrows. On Monday, someone had asked Grant whether he had some more birds hidden up his sleeve—if he had another issue.

"It's gonna be a long week," he replies, "and if you can think of something, we'll let you know."

On Wednesday, he did . . . or so it would seem. Halfway through the daily briefing session Grant casually mentioned that Tarkenton had a sore arm, much as someone might suggest that it looks like rain.

Perhaps it was merely another throwaway line, merely an observation, but probably not. Grant, like all pro football coaches and clearly more than most, is a tactician, a calculating man, not given to the idle observation, the off-handed remark.

Whatever it was, it worked. The balloon of boredom was burst. Attention was focused. Here, clearly, was an issue to be dealt with.

And Grant was ready to deal with it. "Everytime he gets a sore arm, he has a great day," he said, perhaps trying ever-so-cleverly to throw the Steelers ever-so-slightly off guard. "It's a good omen for us," Grant said. "I think he worries about it and he always seems to throw a little better with it. I'm sure if he's still sore on Sunday, he'll have a great day."

If that's the case, Tarkenton's adrenalin was positively gushing all through the season. "I was hit on the shoulder in the first game of the season and it's bothered me off and on since then," he said. Despite it, he finished among the National Conference's passing leaders with 17 touchdowns and more than 2,500 yards.

But what about the soreness now? Nothing important he replied. "It's a little sore but it's okay."

Four Bruins picked for All-Star team

MONTREAL (AP) — Boston's Phil Esposito, the National Hockey League's top point producer, and Buffalo's high-scoring "French Connection" line of Gil Perreault, Rene Robert and Rick Martin will give the Divisions 3 and 4 team a potent offensive punch in the NHL All-Star Game Jan. 21 at Montreal.

The four players were among 12 named to the squad in balloting Wednesday by members of the Professional Hockey Writers Association. Of the dozen, four were from Boston, three each from Buffalo and Montreal, and two from Los Angeles.

Boston players picked, in addition to Esposito, were defenseman Bobby Orr and Carol Vadnais, and forward Johnny Bucyk. The Montreal representatives were goalie Ken Dryden, defenseman Guy Lapointe and right wing Guy Lafleur. And chosen from Los Angeles were goalie Rogatien Vachon and defenseman Terry Harper.

The unanimous choices were Vachon and Orr, each collecting the maximum of 135 points.

Eight other players will be

Bucks win again

By The Associated Press
Here come the speeding Milwaukee Bucks . . . and there go the backtracking Philadelphia 76ers . . . again.

The Bucks, after a disastrous 1-13 start this season, mainly attributable to the absence of center Kareem Abdul-Jabbar because of injuries, won their 17th game in their last 24 starts, beating the Detroit Pistons 102-92 Wednesday night.

Although the Bucks, now 18-20, still are in last place in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association, the victory pulled them with three games of first-place Detroit.

Meanwhile, Philadelphia continued its losing ways in its long-time series against Los Angeles. The Lakers beat the 76ers 106-98 at Philadelphia for their 15th straight victory over them since 1971. The 76ers have not beaten Los Angeles in Philadelphia since 1969.

In other NBA games, the Boston Celtics downed the Atlanta Hawks 104-96, the Washington Bullets whipped the Phoenix Suns 102-95 and the New York Knicks beat the Seattle SuperSonics 113-102.

Milwaukee surprised Detroit with its fast-breaking attack, led by Bob Dandridge's 32 points, Abdul-Jabbar's 23, rookie Gary Brokaw's 22 and Jim Price's 20 in snapping the Pistons' six-game winning streak.

Brokaw, who came off the bench, and Dandridge combined for 30 points in the second period when the Bucks outscored the Pistons 35-17 and raced into a commanding 53-39 halftime lead.

Dave Bing paced the Pistons with 28 points, raising his career total to 14,541, putting him 19th on the NBA's all-time list, ahead of former Boston star Bill Russell.

Lakers 106, 76ers 98
Gail Goodrich pumped in 10 of his 34 points in the last five minutes, sparking the Lakers' victory over Philadelphia in a game in which the lead changed hands 21 times.

Celtics 104, Hawks 96
Paul Westphal came off the bench and scored 23 points, sparking the Atlantic Division-leading Celtics to their eighth victory in the last nine games.

Bullets 102, Suns 95
Mike Riordan's 31 points, Elvin Hayes' 27 and Phil Chenier's 26 helped the Bullets, Central Division leaders, break a three-game losing streak and hand the Suns their fifth straight setback.

Knicks 113, SuperSonics 102
Earl Monroe's season-high 38 points, including 24 in the second half, enabled the Knicks to extend their mastery over Seattle. The victory was New York's 13th in a row over the SuperSonics.
